On 8 March our guest is Mother Liguori, an authority on Tellihard De Chardin. Her topic is "Jesus And Science."

On 15 March our guest is Father Norman Metsy - an Eastern Rite Priest with views of the East and West that really hit home.

Remember dinner at 1825 followed by the discussion. Come for both. If you must leave early, come anyway.

Air Force Officers & Cadets At New Style Air Force Revel.

Fr. John Denehy, Command Chaplain at The United States Air Force Academy, announced yesterday that he was beginning a campaign to alter the traditional Air Force Image. Though he refused to be quoted, continuing an Air Force tradition of which he approves, Fr. Denehy suggested that the time has come for us to stop appearing to be goody-goody. It is time for us, he hinted, to recapture the glamorous image of romantic by-gone days when the public pictured us as happy lechers with hearts of gold. Today, he intimated, our young people look upon us as sober-sided, humorless bores, without a spark of derring-do. They think of us, he suggested, as

The Fourth Classman was asked why he talked to himself so much. He replied: "For two reasons. First, I like to talk to a smart man. Second, I like to hear a smart man talk." - ch Browning

PLAYBOY OF THE MONTH

ATHLETE

LOVER

Chaplain Robert Browning

"I'm terribly humble about receiving this award. Though I know practically everybody will disagree with me, I just don't believe I deserve it. But, I guess, that's the way I always am. Humility just seems to be my bag. I know from Scripture that I shouldn't hide my light under a bushel (see Matthew 5:15). No, indeed. I know I should be placed on a pedestal to give light to the whole place (ibid., last phrase of the verse). But that's the way I am.

"I suppose this is due to my being a graduate of the Academy. I learned humility here. Even as a First Classman I was taught never to be arrogant or proud. 'Hide your light under a bushel' (basket) (contravening Matthew 5:15), my AOC's used to say. 'Nobody likes a smart er - ah fellow,' they used to say. Even in our sports program they used to teach me humility. Say isn't that a gorgeous picture of me when I went out for track? (See top of next column to the left) 'It doesn't matter if you win,' they'd say, 'as long as you cripple the other team.' 'Everyone loves a good, humble sport,' they said, 'no one can stand a smart er - ah fellow.'

"In academic subjects I learned humility, too. I could have gotten a 4.0 average here with no trouble. I was, in all humility, good! But my fellow classmen taught me humility. 'Don't be a grind,' they'd say. 'Hide your light under a bushel' (basket) (see above). 'No one, no one at all, likes a smart er - ah fellow.' So I became humble and I'm really damn proud of it.

"I notice you call me athlete warrior, lover. That's all true. But mostly I'm just humble."

"MAN DOES NOT LIVE BY BREAD ALONE."
HE NEEDS A HECK OF A LOT MORE THAN THAT.

WARRIOR

ANNAPOLIS CHAPLAIN TO SPEAK HERE

Chaplain, Captain, Henry C. Duncan of the United States Naval Academy will be the guest speaker for Protestant Worship Services at 0830 and 1100 on Sunday 12 Mar. Chaplain Duncan is sponsored by the United Methodist Commission and comes from Missouri. He graduated from Drury College, Springfield, Missouri, and Duke Divinity School, Durham, North Carolina. During World War II he served in the Marine Corps. After ordination he served as a civilian pastor in Charlotte, North Carolina, until commissioned as a Chaplain in 1951. Before coming to Annapolis in 1970, he served with the First Marine Aircraft Wing in Vietnam. Chaplain Duncan and his wife, Esta Lee, have two children attending college. We welcome him to the pulpit of the United States Air Force Cadet Chapel.

A man feeling his way toward his own identity, sculpts a FACE in clay. It reflects the Byzantine, then the Renaissance, then a 'here and now' way of visualizing his image of Christ.

Don't miss this dramatic visual presentation of the "Face of Christ" by Lt Col Gilbert Neil Amelio in Arnold Hall, Monday, 20 March 1972! "In the beginning was the word, and the word became flesh, and dwelt among us."

cold eyed technocrats, with computers as hearts. How can you capture the admiration and enthusiastic support of youth, he opined, if they see us as dried up and zestless. They'll never believe, he brainstormed, that behind our dull, listless facades beat the souls of adventurers and sports yearning to be free.

Let us all, he recommended, no matter how painful it might be, strive with all our might, to rectify this sad summation of what we seem to be. We should strive to appear to have fun no matter how miserable we are. Remember, he proposed, the Air Force expects every man to do his duty!

Col. A. S. Ragen, Director of the Office of Information at the Academy, Praises Air Force As A Career.

"When I was a civilian, many years ago, I was nothing but a slob! Girls ignored me. When I went to the beach big bullies would kick sand in my face and laughingly walk away with any girl I might have attracted. Then one day I saw a poster. It showed Uncle Sam pointing a finger at me, and saying: 'I Want You!' I couldn't believe it! It was like a revelation! Someone really wanted me! I immediately enlisted. At first, however, I couldn't lose my civilian mentality. I remained shy and sober. Girls still avoided me. Then one day my supervisor said to me: 'Ragen! What's the matter with you? Air Force Officer that you are, you still act like a civilian. You're supposed to be dashing, daring, drinking. You're supposed to be like Errol Flynn.' I was startled. Could this really be true? Was I letting the Air Force down? I immediately went out and had a drink, then another and another! Before I noticed the time, it was dark, and girls were clustered around me fingering my medals, asking about my war experiences, getting my phone number. Men looked at me with a new respect. They asked me for the address of the nearest recruiter. I HAD FOUND MYSELF! Now, 40 years later, I still bless the day when I learned Uncle Sam wanted me."

BECOME A HAPPY, DEDICATED, AIR FORCE OFFICER, AND NEVER HAVE SAND KICKED IN YOUR FACE!

BUFFOLAS BY BOB

Chaplain Robert Browning, COP'S PLAYBOY OF THE MONTH, Is the author of this months "Buffolas."

Long recognized by a small, intimate group as a master of the witty riposte, these jokes are published so that a wider group can share their joy.

To cognescenti of American humor, these jokes are classic examples of B.P.F. (Baptist Preacher's Funnies).

If a child of God marries a child of the devil, said child of God is sure to have some trouble with his father-in-law.

"Excuse me for a moment, Reverend, while I go put on my percolator," the young wife said. "Oh," said the visiting clergyman, "you look all right with what you have on."

Mike looked at Pat, lying in his coffin and began to laugh. The undertaker was appalled and confronted Mike. Mike explained, "you see sir, Pat didn't believe in a hereafter, and there he is, all dressed up and no place to go."

The farmer was quoted as saying, "preachers are like fertilizer. Put them in a pile and they begin to smell, but spread them out over the land and they do lots of good!"

A First Classman quit attending church and when asked why responded: "It got too dangerous. One Sunday they had a big gun in the pulpit; the choir murdered the Anthem; and the organist tried to drown the choir."

Waiter: "How will you have your steak, chaplain?" Chaplain: (absent-mindedly) "well done, good and faithful servant."

"Praise The Lord," loudly shouted the visitor. "You can't do that here," whispered the usher.

"Didn't the bride look stunning?" she said. "And didn't the groom look stunned?" he said.

"Where do sheep get their hair cut," Laura asked. "I don't know," I said. "At the Ba Ba shop," she responded.

Young Bobby, pointed at the Chaplain and asked: "Ma Ma who is that?" "Hush Bobby," she said. "That's the man who married me." "Well then," Bobby responded, "What's Pa doing hanging around our house all the time?"
