THE 4-WHEEL-DRIVE CLUB CAB

Dodge—and only Dodge—has it.

The Dodge Club Cab is one of the most useful innovations in pickup truck engineering in years. A pickup with 34 extra cubic feet of storage space behind the seat where you can keep all those things—or people—that you don't want to leave lying around in the back of the truck. The Club Cab is the only truck of its kind in the pickup field.

Now look what we've done for an encore. We're offering the Club Cab with four-wheel-drive. So not only do you get extra room behind the seat, you get extra traction to help pull you through in mud, snow, sand... anything.

The four-wheel-drive Club Cab. It's a big improvement on a big improvement.

A "GAMBLE" PAID OFF FOR CU

As you sit in comfort in 51,000-seat Folsom Field to watch the Buffs in 1973's NCAA splendor, you might wonder what it was like to watch CU football in the past.

The Buffs of 1890-1923 played their rough and tumble football in old Gamble Field, which was located southeast of the present University Memorial Center right in the middle of the campus. Crowds of 5,000 cheered lustily for the Buffs old as they battled traditional foes like Colorado Mines, Colorado A&M, Wyoming, Utah and Denver.

But that wasn't enough, and in 1924 the Herd moved to newly-built Folsom Field, named after one of its early and successful coaches, and seating 30,000 as the Buffs began to pick up steam against tougher and tougher schedules. In 1937, Byron White and his gang roared through unbeaten and into the Cotton Bowl to signal CU's arrival into the upper crust of NCAA big-time football.

Colorado's arrival in the Big Seven Conference spurred a stadium addition of double-decker proportions in 1956 that upped Folsom Field's seating capacity to 45,000 as the Buffs celebrated their 15,000 new seats with an Orange Bowl win over Clemson. . . .

Then, in 1967, Folsom Field's running track was removed, some 6,000 new seats added, and a new team dressing facility was built.

The 1972 addition of bleachers at the north end and sides raised Folsom Field's present capacity to about 51,000, and that's where you are today.

But it may not last . . . another year of sellout crowds has Eddie Crowder's aides back on the drawing boards for another stadium expansion for perhaps the 1974 season.

Old Gamble Field is just a memory now . . . but what would those oldtimers think now if they could see what has happened?

THE CROWDER ERA - A ROCKY MOUNTAIN HIGH

OU's '52 All-American

Colorado's '73 Head Coach

The University of Colorado's rise to national football prominence has been guided since 1963 by the steady hands of Eddie Crowder, a former All-American quarterback at Oklahoma in 1952 and a native of Muskogee, Oklahoma.

The 41-year old Crowder took his 1972 Buffaloes to their fourth straight post-season bowl trip (Gator Bowl vs. Auburn), an 8-3 regular season record, and a stunning 20-14 upset in Boulder of the second-rated Oklahoma Sooners, the lone loss for the Big Eight Champions. It was CU's fifth bowl appearance in the last six years under Eddie.

Noteworthy also was the steady rise in interest in Colorado football in 1972. Crowder's football teams of the last three years have generated intense interest in CU and Big Eight football, and last season a record 307,044 fans watched CU's six home games. Each game was a sellout and the public snatched up all available 24,000 season tickets before the season even started.

Eddie was hired in 1963 by Colorado as head coach after he had served for seven seasons on the Oklahoma staff under his old coach, Bud Wilkinson. At that time the Colorado program was at rock bottom after an NCAA penalty following the 1961 championship season.

After a pair of 2-8 seasons in 1963 and 1964 when Eddie was tirelessly recruiting, touring the state and developing good will, and rebuilding from the bottom, his 1965 team went 6-2-2 and he was named the Big Eight Coach of the Year.

In the last eight years, playing with his own recruits, Crowder has compiled a fabulous 58-27-2 mark, seven first-division league finishes, five bowl trips, and built a solid foundation for Colorado football as the entertainment masterpiece of the Rockies in the autumn.

He was named athletic director in 1965 and his astute leadership and superb organization have resulted in yearly major improvements in CU's growing program, like two additions to Folsom Field's seating, Astro-Turf, an all-weather track stadium and baseball complex, a modern training facility and team building in the stadium, a huge and modern press facility overlooking Folsom Field that ranks as the largest and finest in the nation, and a solid Buffalo Club booster group that is a driving force behind CU athletics. Next up on the Crowder list is a new basketball arena.

After a sparkling prep career at Muskogee High, Eddie enrolled at Oklahoma in 1949. He rose to prominence with the powerful Sooner grid machines and as quarterback in 1951 and 1952, he led the Big Red to 8-2-0 and 8-1-1 records and won All-American honors in 1952. He also married his boyhood sweetheart, the former Jean Arnold of Muskogee.

After two years with the U.S. Army Engineering Corps, Eddie received his degree in Geology from OU in 1955. He went to West Point under coach Earl Blaik for one season to begin his coaching career before returning to Wilkinson's staff in 1957 to begin mastering the techniques that would serve him so well in later years at OU and then at Colorado.

His Colorado football teams have been among the nation's leaders in recent years in rushing, scoring, and total offense, but also have been noted for solid defenses and a hard-hitting, physical style of play.

Eddie's 1971 team went 10-2, won the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl against Houston, and was ranked third nationally in the final poll. His 1973 team will feature many outstanding veterans and some fine new faces, leading to the suggestion that another fine Buffalo Herd is in the making for the fall.

Eddie's teams have produced a total of eight All-Americans, 31 All-Big Eight selections, four Academic All-Americans, over 25 NFL draft choices, and annual representation in the post-season All-Star games by his top seniors.

More important than that, his program has turned out college graduates capable of making their way successfully in life with solid goals and ideals.

Eddie and Jean have a pair of sons, Robert and Michael, and a daughter, Carol Jean.

Journeying through the East with a floating crap game, legend has it that sometime in the late 1890's Poker Williams saw his first football game. Intrigued by the sport, but loathe to participate, fearing he might soil some recently purchased finery from Baltimore, Poker nonetheless picked up one of the game's most important strategems. The necessity for post-game libation and sustenance. He immediately returned to Boulder and opened a dining parlor and bar.

BUFFS, FALCONS BATTLE

Air Force (2-1) and Colorado (3-1) square off again today for the 15th time in the colorful and exciting Rocky Mountain grid warfare that year to year produces some of the most exciting moments in football.

The Buffs, coming off a fine 23-16 win over Iowa State at Ames last Saturday, hold a commanding 10-4 edge in the Falcon series that began in 1958. The Herd has won the last three games by scores of 49-19, 53-17 and 38-7, but the Falcons will attempt to break that skein today with a sharp attack led by senior quarterback Rich Haynie of Florissant, Missouri.

Air Force has beaten New Mexico and Oregon, but lost a 19-9 bout last weekend with nationally-ranked Penn State at the Academy Stadium to fall to a 2-1 on the year.

Haynie, who can run and throw, will have an awesome receiver on the end of his tosses in 5-10, 169-pound junior Frank Murphy, who grabbed three for 53 yards against Penn State. He'll team up with fullback Bill Berry and tailback Mike Mark for a potent offense.

The Falcons, smallish but quick and aggressive, average 200 pounds per man on their defensive unit, which will be tested by a formidable Colorado running attack led by fullback Bo Matthews, quarterback Clyde Crutchmer, and tailbacks Charlie Davis and Billy Waddy.

Crutchmer, who suffered a bruised elbow against Iowa State, was three-for-three for 79 yards and a 45-yard TD pass to Dave Logan against the Cyclones in the first period before being injured and giving way to another soph, David Williams, who finished the game and played well.

The Colorado "No Name" defense rose time and time again to stifle Iowa State scoring threats and hold the potent ISU offense to just one second half field goal, plus denying threats inside their own 25 three times.

If the Buffs throw, the Falcons have a top safety in 6-2, 182-pound senior Steve Heil of Gering, Nebraska, to defend against the Buffalo aerals.

The game promises to be a typical Air Force-Colorado battle, with plenty of scoring and exciting action. The Buffs must go to Oklahoma to meet the Sooners next week in a crucial early-season league test, then back to Boulder to meet Missouri in Homecoming/73 on October 27 at 1:30 in Folsom Field.

College Rules Keep Pace with Game

by DAVID M. NELSON, Secretary-Editor, NCAA Football Rules Committee

There are some sports watchers who believe that the NCAA has a two-front offensive underway, one with the AAU and the other with professional sports. The offensive aimed at the pros is based on the NCAA constitutional provision that there must be a clear demarcation between college athletics and professional sports. Nowhere does the demarcation stand out more than in the differences in the football rules of the two groups.

Many Changes

The college game continues to be a dynamic, exciting contest catalyzed by rules changes that adapt to the cycles of the sport which are created by the increased speed, size and greater skills of the players. There are 180 changes listed for the last 15 years, covering everything from the scoring (two-point conversion), the size of the goal posts (23' 4"), the timing of the game (starting and stopping the clock), a prohibition against blocking below the waist and at least one adjustment in each of the ten basic rules.

While keeping the game alive with innovative changes the NCAA and the National High School Federation have marched to the same drummer, making 73 changes in the last seven years to bring the two codes closer together. There have been very few rule changes in professional football since 1959. The only significant ones in 13 years were (1) the prohibition against grabbing the face mask, (2) the addition of the sixth official and (3) moving the hash marks 20 yards from the sideline. The demarcation between professional football and the college game was dramatically demonstrated by three games played on the West Coast last season. Take a look at the best of the two football worlds and see where the action is:

Game Totals	USC- Notre Dame	Rose Bowl	Super Bowl
Final Score	45-23	42-17	14-7
Offensive Plays	136	134	116
Passing Yards	349	352	156
Rushing Yards	331	492	325
Total Yards	680	817	481
First Downs	37	45	28
Punts	11	9	12
Kickoffs	12	10	5
Punt Return Yards	17	0	13
Kickoff-Return Yards	340	162	78
Touchdowns	10	8	3
Points	78	59	21

The National High School Federation and college football are not resting on their laurels and are annually adjusting their rules to the modern game. On the opposite page are the major NCAA changes in order of importance with capsule summaries in the turf handicapper's style.

The two most significant changes for 1973 are the substitution change and the permission given for each team to use its own ball. The change in the substitution rule to permit as many as eleven substitutes to enter the game while the ball is dead originated with the AFCA Football Rules Committee at their meeting in Chicago last January. The coaches have been clamoring for this completely free rule since 1965 when Rule 3-5-1 was changed to permit "platoon football."

Pleasant Surprise

After attempting without success for several years to get a more liberal rule, the coaches forgot about it. The sudden change came as a pleasant surprise to the coaching fraternity. The change will permit faster and smaller players to cover punts and will also permit faster, more agile players to rush the punt.

The officials will "burn a few barns" because they no longer have to check substitutes during the downs other than those where team possession changed. The Rules Committee was elated because three pages of nit-picking interpretations were deleted from the Official Rules Interpretations Book. Everybody seems happy, so the Rules Committee might have done something right for a change.

A change in the rule governing the type of ball that may be used in the game is another amendment that originated with the AFCA. Prior to the 1973 adjustment governing the type of ball used in the game, one brand or manufacture of ball meeting the rule specifications had to be used for the entire game. Coaches complained that one brand either felt different, spiraled differently, looked different, or had a peculiar odor; and these little things upset the passers and kickers so much they gave sub-par performances on the road. Previously, the home team had the choice of the ball to be used in a game.

Helium-Filled Ball?

The new rule raises several interesting questions including the violation of the old adage that you never allow an opponent to use his own ball,

Today's football officials are finding that they must hustle as much off the field as they do on, due to the ever-changing rules of the college game.

dice or cards. Also, it will be difficult to determine how many balls to take to a road game, especially if the visiting team scores six or seven touchdowns and kicks the conversions into the stands. Then there is the problem of handing a team a different ball when they are kicking out of their own end zone. This is the place you might get the one filled with helium or sand.

The Rules Committee is two for two with the coaches because of these changes. It pays to listen to the coaches who are usually right about one thing, i. e., how the game of football should be played.

The Latest Changes...

Rule Description

1-2-4 It is recommended that the area between the sideline and the limit line (6 feet) in the team area be marked solid white throughout.

Comment

This rule should keep people at the sideline from "stepping on the coaches' toes."

1-2-6 Eight flexible pylons of red or orange color (4" x 4" square x 18" high) must be used at the intersections of sidelines with goal lines and end lines (effective 1974 season).

With eight red pylons on the field, the dog who gets on the field will think he is in fire hydrant heaven.

1-3-2 During the entire game, either team may use a & ball of their choice when they are in possession. Int. Book

Using your own ball is almost as good as using your own dice or cards but you can't take your ball and go home.

1-4-4 Numbers at least 8 inches high on the front and 10 inches on the back of the jersey respectively must be worn. Ten inches in front and 12 inches in back are now legal.

Putting 12 inch numbers on 5'8" players is like putting Dick Butkus's jersey on Eddie LeBaron.

1-4-4 All players must wear securely fastened chin straps on their helmets.

This means the helmet can no longer go off without the head going with it and players won't lose their heads.

1-4-4 All players shall use an intraoral mouth protector composed of at least two portions, one an inter-occlusion portion and the other a labial portion.

There will be no evidence of teeth marks if a player bites an opponent.

1-4-5 Players with artificial arms, legs, or hands are (d) prohibited from playing.

Passers with glass arms are still legal and they get a break.

2-7-2 A valid fair catch signal is extending one hand and one arm above the head and waving them from side to side. (Interpretation: Shading the eyes is an invalid signal unless given before or after a valid fair catch signal.)

What happens if the signal is given from side to side with one hand while shading the eyes with the other?

3-5-1 Any number of eligible substitutes may enter the game between periods, after a score or try, or when the ball is dead during an interval between downs.

With this change, substitutes and officials will no longer be waving at each other during substitutions.

3-5-2 An incoming substitute must enter the game from (c) his team area, and a replaced player must leave the game at the sideline of his team area.

If you want to join the opposing team at their bench when things get rough, it can't be done.

4-1-3 When Team A catches an illegal forward pass in (c) Team B's end zone, or when Team A completes a pass in Team B's end zone to an ineligible player, the ball is dead.

This makes legal what officials have done for years and have been telling the Rules Committee to get it in the Rules.

4-1-2 If a whistle is sounded inadvertently when the & ball is free on a fumble, the ball is returned to the Int. spot of last possession and given to the team that Book had possession of the ball at that spot.

Gives the official an escape clause, so he does not have to swallow his whistle when he has blown it inadvertently.

5-1-3 The ball shall always be spotted with its length axis parallel to the sideline before measuring. The ball will be placed parallel with the sideline.

This means there will be no more measurements that are on the bias.

Ben Brings Life to 'Graveyard'

by ARNIE BURDICK, Syracuse Herald-Journal

It was way back in that wonderful year of 1949 when Ben Schwartzwalder first planted his cleats on the Syracuse grid-iron.

Just think—1949! Darrell Royal was busy quarterbacking Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma eleven to its second straight Sugar Bowl triumph . . . Bear Bryant, a young coach trying to put it all together at Kentucky, still had a whistle-stop to make at Texas A & M before returning to his Alma Mater . . . and Woody Hayes, just shifting from Denison to Miami of Ohio, was still three seasons away from being discovered by Columbus and Ohio State.

Builds Winners

As Harry S. Truman was being inaugurated for a second term and Casey Stengel was fielding his first Yankee Champions, Bantam Ben came out of Muhlenberg to lift Syracuse University's football fortunes off the floor and build winners.

This is all recalled now as the silver-haired ex-paratrooper bows out this fall with his Silver Anniversary edition of the Orange. Twenty-five eventful years at the same station, an upset in itself in this day and age of almost constant coaching turnovers . . . And also in view of the fact that in 1949, Schwartzie became the fourth head coach at Syracuse in four years. Ben still remembers vividly when he was originally approached, he wasn't going to accept the job, "cuz Syracuse is a graveyard for coaches."

Well, 151 wins and seven bowls later, Ben is still whistling in the same graveyard, though perhaps his tune has mellowed due to the quarter-century of changes on campus as well as in football.

"Yes, it's a different game now," the 1959 Coach-of-the-Year and of Syracuse's National Champions mused recently. Platoon football has made for greater numbers. It's also promoted multiple offenses, defenses and the forward pass. It's encouraged a sophistication of skills and performances all along the line, for now the player gets the opportunity to spend more time developing the few skills he's required to use. No longer is the emphasis on the durable, stronger person. A one-way player usually only has to go hard for 10 plays, then he can take a blow.

Speed Game

"Today's game is a speed game. Teams that have speed and can effectively use it are difficult to beat. One speed kid who must be durable is the key to your offense—the quarterback. Give me a good quarterback who's also fast and has durability, like Oklahoma's Jackie Mildren; and I'll take my chances."

Schwartzie, who was a 60-minute, 152-pound center for Greasey Neale at West

Ben Schwartzwalder

Staying Power

Virginia in the early 30's, then stepped out of the past and discussed today's youngsters. "A lot of alums like to talk about the 'good old days,'" smiled Ben, "yet really, today's kids are not only bigger and better athletes; but they're more skilled, too. Remember, back in our day, a big line averaged 200 pounds. Now, that's not even a big high-school line. Also, these kids come to us better prepared. They get better coaching, right from the grassroots on up."

Then Schwartzie, known as a "hard-nosed taskmaster," offered a few words of advice to younger coaches who are dazzled by the mod deployment and finesse in vogue today. "Yes, we've endured a fancy cycle," reflected Coach Ben, "but coaches—and fans, too—should be mindful that when a team lines up against its equal, that basic fundamentals pay off. If you're solid basically, you can afford the luxury of a cut wrinkle or two. But you don't ever beat a good football team just by fooling 'em. You've got to be sound in the basics."

"True, a trick play called at the right time might help, but good teams are good because they excel in blocking . . . tackling . . . and execution. That's what wins football games!"

A man who successfully battled the Nazis on D-Day, as well as today's turnover coaching craze, had just imparted his winning philosophy before kicking off his final campaign. Only 15 others had ever coached more major college football triumphs. Ben Schwartzwalder, the man who came to Syracuse way back in that wonderful year of 1949.

NCAA Reorganizes Itself into Three Divisions

by DAVE DANIEL, NCAA News Editor

Some folks think the National Collegiate Athletic Association's reorganization into three divisions is much like ordering from a menu in a Chinese restaurant—with One you get football; or with Two you may choose one from Division I.

Actually, the NCAA remains the same—only the names have been changed.

The Constitution remains a single document, applicable to all members. The reorganization allows for each division to adopt amendments to the Bylaws applicable only to that specific division without the approval of any other division.

Each NCAA member institution will select its division through self-determination, except in the sport of football, in which Division I membership will consist of those 126 institutions currently classified as "major" by the Football Statistics and Classification Committee.

Self-determination is a key phrase. Many think that Division I membership is restricted to those 126 "major" teams. However, an institution may classify itself Division I in all sports other than football. Fordham University would be a prime example. Its program, except football, is Division I. Its football team is classified Division III.

To Each His Own

The members of each division may establish criteria for membership in that division subsequent to self-determination.

An institution in Division II or III may elect to participate in Division I in one sport, other than football or basketball, and must abide by the Division I Bylaws which govern the sport in question, even though the institution's membership rests in another division. An example could be Pan American University, which could have an overall Division II program, but could elect to participate in Division I in baseball, its strongest program.

There are numerous other examples, also, and it's possible that some institutions could compete in all three divisions in different sports. An institution's football team could be classified Division III, it could self-determine Division II for its overall program, and still choose Division I for one sport.

No matter what division an institution competes in, it will have a much better opportunity to compete in a National Collegiate Championship event.

The NCAA will sponsor a minimum of 39 National Championships by the 1975-76 year with at least 10 Championships in each of the three divisions.

Only one National Championship will be conducted in the sports of fencing, hockey, skiing, indoor track, volleyball and water polo. All member institutions are eligible to compete in the above Championships under eligibility rules of the division they elect for their overall program through 1975-76. After that, the member institution and its individual athletes must be eligible under the governing legislation for the division conducting the championship.

Each of the three divisions will have National Championship competition in the sports of baseball, basketball, cross country, golf, soccer, swimming, tennis, outdoor track and field and wrestling.

In addition, Divisions II and III will have a National Championship tournament in football.

Gymnastics and lacrosse championships will be sponsored in Divisions I and II and members of Division III will be eligible for the Division II championship in these sports.

In individual events, certain place winners from Division II and III championships who meet the qualifying standards will be eligible to compete in Division I competition, providing such individuals have met all academic and eligibility requirements of Division I, including academic standards for initial participation. For example, the top five finishers in the Division II and Division III cross country championships will be eligible to compete in the Division I championship.

Movement Possible

An institution may change its division membership by petitioning the NCAA Council if it meets the established criteria for membership in the division it wishes to be transferred to.

The Council itself will be restructured to give each division representation.

The Council will retain its 16-member make-up, but each NCAA District shall have a vice-president and eight vice-presidents will be elected at-large.

Among the 16 vice-presidents, eight will be from Division I members and four each will come from Divisions II and III. The president and secretary-treasurer will be ex officio members of the Council, as they currently are, and they may be elected from any division.

The Executive Committee will also be restructured with five members being elected from Division I and three from Divisions II and III with each division being represented by at least one member.

All standing committees of the NCAA will be evaluated with a view towards providing representation to each division where appropriate. Specifically, each of the three divisions shall be represented on all rules committees. This will be accomplished after the Association's 68th annual Convention in January in San Francisco, where the implementing legislation will be presented.

The reorganization plan was considered to be a vital course of action for the NCAA. "It will enable our members to enact rules which pertain to their own competition," said NCAA President Alan J. Chapman. "It will make the NCAA an even more valuable force in intercollegiate athletics."

Charts Show Running Teams Win More

The fact that Colorado, Nebraska and Oklahoma have come to be known as the "Big Three" of Big Eight football is not without reasons. Of course there are national rankings, bowl victories, prestigious road wins, big crowds, and all.

But the proof of the pudding lies in bare, cold statistics that show these three Titans of the nation's toughest football conference among the nation's offensive leaders over the last five seasons (1968-72).

Our Buffs over the last five years rank 10th nationally in rushing offense, with a per-game average of 254.1 yards through 52 regular season games. Eddie Crowder's ground-oriented offense has scored at 27.0 points per game, totalled 381.0 yards per game and won 34 of those 52 regular season games.

With Big Eight Conference members in bold type, here are the nation's NCAA University Division offensive category leaders over the last five seasons, with their won-lost record.

Only one rushing leader (New Mexico) has a five-year record on the losing side. Meanwhile, a total of nine teams who live and die with the passing game have losing records over the last five seasons. (UTEP, Davidson, North Texas State, Oregon, Kansas State, Idaho, SMU, Southern Mississippi and Tulsa.)

Draw your own conclusions from the facts listed in the five charts on this page.

Folsom Fanatics: Get your signals straight!

Some of you sitting here probably think you don't need to bother with the following. That the official referee's signal guide sandwiched elsewhere between these pages has the definitive answer to all your questions. Like, "Is that an incomplete pass or is he scratching his armpit?"

Well, you're wrong. You don't know the half of it. But fortunately for you, National State of Boulder does. So, as a public service, we present: The unofficial unexpurgated referee's signal guide.

Negligent use of eyes. Heartfelt apologies to the 40,000 who saw the clip I didn't see.

Official grandstanding. Usually occurs at lackluster LSU games (La Salle Extension University) or when ref's Mom is watching on nationwide TV.

Foul animal near, buffalo in motion. Move 15 yards upwind and receive new shoe.

Illegal block. Occurs most often when J. V. Cain runs a deep post pattern. Do 4 backward rolls and see if you can stand.

Standing too close to Pueblo Drum and Bugle Corps. Take 5 steps backward and break conductor's baton.

First down and a half mile to go to National State (13th and Pearl), for Freeway Checking, the charge-free $100 minimum account.

And now, a word from our sponsor.

Thought we were going to fool around this whole ad, didn't you? Again, you're wrong. You should know by now there's no such thing as a free page in big-time American advertising. So, on with the sell. Besides Freeway Checking (the best checking deal in town) National State also offers Golden Passbook, where a deposit of $500 or more not only earns the highest 90 day legal rate possible, but also gives you a free checking account with no minimum balance requirement. Quickteller, the lobby depository for non-cash deposits (you avoid standing in line). Every other service you'd expect from a full service bank. And lots of very professional bankers acting like real people.

Hut-hut down to 13th and Pearl sometime next week.

If you don't, you still haven't got your signals straight.

USC'S JOHN McKAY WITH SOME IDEAS ON FOOTBALL

By JOHN McKAY, Southern Cal

Voted 1972 Coach of the Year by American Football Coaches Association, of which he is 1973 president Recruiting is usually a subject college coaches would just as soon forget.

When you win a national championship, as we were fortunate to do last season, everybody tells us how easy it'll be to recruit because everybody wants to play for a winner.

If it were only so easy. Conversely, it seems to be getting tougher.

We were recruiting a linebacker from a suburban Los Angeles high school during the past fall but really didn't spend much time with the youngster until after the Rose Bowl.

When we invited him to the campus you would have thought we were entertaining royalty. He consented to visit and spend a few minutes but was put out that he hadn't received more attention during the season.

When it came down to brass tacks and we asked him if he were interested in attending Southern Cal he replied:

"Well, gosh, I think I would, but there's one problem—my dad doesn't like your television show!"

Honest.

The kid went elsewhere.

So, we may not have the best football team in the country this fall, but I'll guarantee you one thing . . . my television show will be a whole lot better.

You've got to keep a sense of humor in this game of coaching. We have to remind ourselves every so often not to take ourselves too seriously.

I keep hearing how much emotion plays in winning football games. To this I can only say that my wife, Corky, is an emotional person and she can't play football worth a darn.

My son is on the football team at USC. People used to sit in the stands (and I'd hear them from the sidelines) hollering "McKay you idiot."

Now they holler, "There's that idiot McKay playing his idiot son."

But really, I have had no problem coaching my son. He played better last year than I anticipated. We told him he had to convince the rest of the team that he deserved to play. If he could do that he would have no problem.

He had an excellent freshman year, a great spring before last year and I don't think he dropped a ball all year that he should have caught.

And as far as recruiting him was concerned, we had one big advantage . . . I'd been very good friends with his mother for 20 years.

We in football are involved with one of the greatest things in the world.

I believe in football because it offers things that are tough to get in other ways of life. Number one is the ability to accept criticism. Football teaches you how to win and lose; how to perform under duress.

It always seems to me a boy leaves college better off for having played football. The first thing it does is help cure him of selfish attitudes.

Football teaches you how to play within the rules. A lot of youngsters don't have rules, and that's too bad.

Football teaches you to be part of something—being a part of a family, the school, the church, the country.

You can't beat it.

Haynie Makes Falcons Fly

Rich Mayo, Terry Isaacson, Gary Baxter and Bob Parker.

All of the above were outstanding Air Force quarterbacks and by the end of the current football season the name Rich Haynie may be the latest addition to the list.

A 6-2, 193-pound senior from Florissant, Mo., Haynie could wind up with an armful of records by the end of the season, maybe as many as 20 Academy marks.

All the Academy total offense and passing records are within his grasp and he already holds a share of the school touchdown pass record with 25, including 17 last season.

By any measure, Haynie's statistics are some of the best in the nation but the Falcon co-captain isn't very impressed.

"I really don't look for records," Haynie explained. "There is really only one record that counts—the final team record."

Even in that department the strong-throwing Falcon righthander has done well, guiding Air Force to back-to-back 6-4 seasons since taking over as a starting quarterback as a sophomore.

But being in a leadership role is nothing new to Haynie, who was the baseball team captain last spring, one of the few Falcon athletes to ever captain two varsity sports.

"Rich is a do-it-all type of quarterback," said Falcon head coach Ben Martin. "He has had a lot of valuable experience at that spot. He is very solid from the standpoint of ballhandling techniques and he can handle the entire attack. He is a very strong and accurate passer and as a team leader gets a lot of respect from the players. I think he's in for a great year."

If Haynie does have that great year, then the Falcon football fortunes should correspondingly rise.

Last season, for instance, Haynie passed for 1,570 yards and added 223 more rushing, some of the best offensive statistics in the country.

Against Arizona State, Rich sparked the 39-31 Falcon victory with his best game, throwing for 332 yards and four touchdowns, three of them to flanker Frank

RICH HAYNIE

Murphy, who also returns in the Falcon attack.

"I was really excited for the Arizona State game," Haynie said. "They beat us 4-3 in baseball when I was pitching as a freshman, then they beat us 44-28 in football when I was a sophomore."

As a baseball pitcher, Haynie could wind up with his share of records there as well but was hampered last spring by a knee injury that has since been corrected by surgery. However, he had a 9-3 record and batted .395 in 1972 and wound up as the team's most valuable player.

"Statistics sometimes don't mean that much," the Falcon quarterback-pitcher said. "Take Mike Rae of Southern California for instance. Last season he wasn't high in the national stats but he led his team to an undefeated season. That's what a quarterback is supposed to do. Jerry Tagge of Nebraska also was like that."

There are those who will say that Haynie as well has the winning image. Rich got his first big chance in football as a sophomore when he led the Falcons to a 23-19 victory over Wyoming, throwing a touchdown pass in the closing seconds that won the game.

But winning has always figured in Haynie's background. An outstanding quarterback and pitcher at McCluer H.S. in suburban St. Louis, Rich led his team to two state football titles and won all-state honors in baseball.

As usual, Air Force will be facing another challenging intersectional schedule this fall, meeting such national powers as Penn State, Colorado and Notre Dame, all ranked high in pre-season ratings.

That's a big challenge and figuring very highly in that challenge will be Haynie, who could leave a record that will be hard to match by future Falcon quarterbacks.

"Racing is the ultimate test."
Dr. Ferry Porsche

Everything we have learned in racing goes into the Mid-Engine Porsche 914 and the Porsche 911.

At Porsche we do not race to make a name . . . we race to build a car.

Buff Basketball Hopes High

(Boulder, Colo.)—Last year Colorado's Sox Walseth was named the Big 8 Coach of the Year for taking his young Buffs to a second place finish and a 13-13 overall mark coming off the worst season in recent CU cage annals.

This season Walseth hops to improve on that feat even more with a solid club this is still smallish by modern standards, but long on hustle and quickness.

Colorado's returning cast, featuring four starters back and a total of nine lettermen, is headed by All-Big Eight forward Scott Wedman of Denver, who scored at 17.7 last season and collared a total of 242 rebounds for a 9.3 game average.

The 6-7, 215-pound senior was runnerup in league scoring to Oklahoma frosh Alvin Adams and is looking for yet another banner campaign and post-season honors.

Wedman will be aided by the return also of 6-5 forward-guard Lee Haven, a senior from Newport Beach, California, who scored at 11.7 last season and won 2nd team All-Big Eight honors, plus soph Dave Logan, the sensational frosh of a year ago who scored at 12.4 as a freshman starter until he was sidelined by ineligibility at the semester. Logan is also a starting wingback in football and his services won't be determined until CU's grid season ends in December. Should CU not go to a bowl game again, Logan will be with the cagers from the start.

Two other starters return for Walseth in 6-2 senior guard Pat Kelly, who hit for a 4.5 ppg average, and 6-5 forward Bill

Cole (5.8) who also played some in the pivot.

Colorado has top reserves in guard Doug Mitchell (4.1) and another backcourt senior sub in Bobby Hofman (1.8). Another frosh letterwinner was center Greg Mueller (2.7) who may be in the race for a starting berth this winter.

The Buffs will be aided by a pair of top JC transfers and one four-year school transfer for the upcoming season.

Out of the JC ranks will come 6-4 guard Tony Lawrence, who scored at 23.3 for Central (Ia.) Community College last season after All-American Prep honors at South Bend, Indiana, Central High. Lawrence is expected to play either guard or forward and big things are hoped for from him.

Also enrolling is 6-6, 230-pound center Lewis Burns from Northeastern (Colo.) JC, where he scored at 13.1 and rebounded at 12.9 per game. The hulking pivot may give Colorado the inside muscle it lacked last year.

Perhaps another transfer in the picture is slender Doug Layne, a 6-10, 200-pound center out of Oakland, California's McClymonds High, which has produced cage stars like Bill Russell and Paul Silas. Layne and had a one-game high of 52 points. He's a deadly outside shooter.

Colorado lacks size, however, and the schedule is rough, but CU fans might hope for better than last year's 13-13 surprise and perhaps yet another challenge to powerful Kansas State for league honors if the newcomers come through as hoped.

HAVEN

transferred to Colorado last fall from Montana State and will have three years at Boulder.

Walseth also got the state's top prep scorer in 6-4 forward Brad Hunt of Bear Creek, who scored 33.4 points per game
